Good Offices Committee In Touch With China via Sweden

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The United Nations good offices committee was reported today to have made its first approach to Communist China to see if Peiping will reconsider and discuss Korean peace terms with it.

Diplomatic sources said the three-member committee had made its move in the last day or so through Swedish government contacts with Red China. No answer has been received yet, it was learned.

Committee Will Study Hospital Insurance Ideas

Majority For Increased Levy

A major increase in premiums still is at the top of the list of suggestions muddled over by a special committee of private members from the Coalition side of the Legislature appointed to study the hospital insurance problem.

It is learned a committee of 10 has been named to set a course of action following failure of a full caucus of the Coalition to reach agreement.

It is not expected the committee will have anything to report for at least two weeks.

The 10 private members will study many recommendations made, including a plan to increase premiums by a small amount and at the same time require hospital patients to pay a portion of their bills, and continue subsidization of the insurance service out of general revenue.

It appears, though, the majority favor an increase in premiums large enough to allow the scheme to stand on its own feet.

Navy Starts Search For Ill-Fated Plane

Naval experts feared today strong northerly currents may have moved the sunken aircraft and its two naval occupants, which crashed into Esquimalt Harbor Wednesday.

The navy began sounding operations at noon to pin-point the wreck which went down in about 100 feet of water, about 1.5 miles from Flisgard light.

As soon as the wreckage can be located, naval divers will be sent down to recover the bodies of Lieut. Ian Macdonald and Lieut. Marcel Champaign, both of Montreal.

Naval ships, which began circling the area today used asdic equipment to locate the wreckage. They reported strong northerly currents and the sea bottom of clay.

Unless the plane stuck in the mud, naval experts fear the current may have moved the wreckage. It was reported naval divers because of the strong currents would have to wait for low tide before attempting to recover the bodies.

ENID BIRD

Lost On Trip To Victoria, Girl Located

R.C.M.P. reported today 20-year-old Enid Bird, English girl, who disappeared en route from Montreal to Vancouver after flying from England, has been located in Vancouver. Details were not available.

Daughter of Mrs. Isabelle Neel, 844 Johnson, an English war bride, Enid was supposed to arrive in Victoria last Monday. When she did not appear the worried mother asked the R.C.M.P. to search for her.

Mrs. Neel, wife of overseas war veteran Frank Neel, still in the army, had baked a cake to celebrate her daughter's 20th birthday on Tuesday.

The wage increase will cost the railways an additional $12,000,000 ($36,000,000) a year. The announcement said if this sum could not be saved by economies and increased efficiency, an increase in railroad fares and freight rates would be requested.

Boy Loses Life Playing Hangman

LONDON (AP)—A published account by Britain's official hangman of how he does his work was blamed today for the death of 13-year-old Roy Tully.

The boy was found hanging in a padded noose at his home Tuesday.

His father said the lad had read a newspaper account of testimony by Alfred Pierpoint, the hangman, before a royal commission on capital punishment.

"I can only surmise that he tried it out," said Tully.

Croner Bentley Purchase recorded a verdict of accidental death.

Smith, found by an employee at his wrecked real estate office last night, said the assault was a case of "mistaken identity." He said he had been robbed of $1,600.

U.N. Gains On Central Front; Canadians Fight For Vital Hill

Pats Inch Way To Its Summit

WITH BRITISH COMMONWEALTH FORCES, Korea (BUP)—Canadian troops were fighting it out with the Chinese almost at pistol-shot range this afternoon for possession of a vital hill on the west central front.

The hill commands an entire valley through which the British Commonwealth forces must drive.

In their third action in 48 hours, the Canucks were inching their way toward the summit against a hail of small arms, automatic weapons and mortar fire. The battle raged throughout the day.

The Chinese held three jagged peaks of Hill 149 and were well dug in, but by sundown the Canadians were only 200 yards from the enemy positions.

The Chinese repelled two assaults by one company. The Canadians came back for more and by nightfall were in possession of one of the peaks opposite the Chinese.

BLOODY FIGHTING

"The going was pretty bloody," one officer said. "Real razor back stuff, with waist-high scrub which helped the enemy more than it did us."

At one time the Chinese were firing low-charge mortar shells straight into the Canadians. Only one air strike was brought in to support the Canadians, but they had strong artillery support from New Zealand gunners throughout the day.

"We don't dare call for more air because we're so close to the enemy," one staff officer explained.

But "the new boys," as the British called them, were not worried.

'HOLDING OUR OWN'

"We're holding our own and engaging the enemy with all the fire at our disposal," was the front line commander's radio report.

One of the first men to meet the Chinese this morning was Lieut. Rick Constant of Lethbridge. He was heading a patrol through a deserted rock quarry when enemy machine guns opened at us less than 200 yards.

The Canadians hit the mud and returned fire. Constant broke contact with the enemy and fell into a mountain stream. He was soaked to the skin when he returned to battalion headquarters to report to Lt. Col. "Big Jim" Stone of Salmon Arm, that the Canucks had another fight on their hands.

Constant didn't think much of Chinese marksmanship.

"Those damn Chinese are not good soldiers," he said. "They had us in the open at 200 yards and didn't hit one of us."

Australian troops moving alongside the Canadians reported they were under fire tonight after reaching the day's objective without opposition.

BIRDS, ANIMALS DIE IN SMOKE OF STORE FIRE

NEW YORK (UP)—A gaping crowd of commuters watched the death today of hundreds of canaries, parrots, mice, hamsters and rabbits in a smoke-filled pet shop.

Only some puppies in the rear of the store survived the fumes which firemen said spread from a fire caused by a defective refrigerator.

The fire damage was trifling but store manager Peter Panousis said the smoke killed some of his favorite pets, including a talking Minah valued at $1,000.

Tissue-Wrapped Coal 'Imported' By Briton

LONDON (AP)—"Anything to declare?" asked the customs officer at London's Victoria Station to a traveler returning from France.

"Yes," replied a woman carrying an immaculate suitcase. "Fifty pounds of coal."

"I must see that," said the doubting officer.

The woman opened the suitcase. Inside was the 50 pounds of coal—each piece wrapped in tissue paper.

The coal-carrier identified herself later as Mrs. Nadine Lampson, daughter-in-law of Britain's retired envoy to China, Egypt and southeast Asia, Lord Kil-

Laborites Lose Move To Modify Transport System

LONDON (Reuter)—The Labor Government was defeated by eight votes in the House of Commons today but the defeat was on a minor issue so no question of its downfall was involved.

Nonetheless, wild cheers and cries of "resign" greeted the announcement of the vote—242 to 234.

The measure will be up for discussion again, when Labor will marshal all its forces in efforts to defeat it.

The bill being debated was not officially sponsored by the Conservative opposition. But all Labor M.P.'s had been informed the government wanted it killed.

No Canuck Protest Of Cougars Win

VANCOUVER (CP)—Owner Coley Hall of the Vancouver Canucks has let the 48-hour deadline pass without filing an official protest of the 4 to 3 loss to Victoria Cougars Tuesday night.

Earlier Canucks had planned to protest referee Eddie Powers' decision to allow a goal when defenseman Vic Lovendahl of Canucks slid into his own net with the puck.

Shawcross, Lie In Nominee List For Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO (AP)—The Norwegian Nobel Institute today nominated 28 persons for the 1951 Nobel Peace Prize. Six organizations also were nominated.

Among those nominated were Sir Hartley Shawcross, Britain's attorney-general; Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary-general; Prime Minister Nehru of India; U.S. Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson and Robert M. Hutchins, former president of the University of Chicago.

Organizations named were CARE and the International Good Templars.

An American, Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, won the 1950 prize, worth 163,303 kroner ($23,000), for his work in winning a truce in the Israel-Arab fighting in Palestine.

The continued bombardments and far-reaching air strikes are aimed at disrupting the Reds' tenuous supply lines to central Korea.

Bitter Red Resistance Is Overcome

TOKYO (AP)—Powerful United Nations forces shoved ahead late today all along the central Korean front after brief but bitter Communist resistance in the mountainous middle section.

The Communists apparently are using fight-and-run tactics in a series of delaying actions against the 100,000-man offensive on the muddy 60-mile front. This would account for the sudden changes in the tenor of battle reports.

On the east flank of the rugged, twisting front, American forces pushed unopposed into rubbled Pyongchang, 25 miles southeast of the main objective—Hoengsong.

Allied forces were closing in on Hoengsong central Red defense point 10 miles north of the offensive kick-off point, Wonju. A field dispatch reported stiff Red resistance on a line east and west of Hoengsong early Friday. Soon afterward the sector was reported quiet.

Also suddenly still was the area north of Chipyong, 20 miles west of Hoengsong. There the 2nd Battalion of Canada's famed Princess Patricia's regiment swept easily through Red opposition astride the Seoul-Hoengsong road west of Hoengsong.

It was the first action of the Korean war for the Patricia's.

And brought to six the countries in the current drive against the Chinese and Korean Reds. Others are: Americans, British, Australian, New Zealand and South Korea.

BRITISH ADVANCE

A.P. correspondent Nate Polowsky said in a dispatch today from the central front that British Commonwealth troops were opposed by about 200 enemy 12 miles west of Hoengsong this afternoon after a considerable advance. He did not specify the country of origin of the Commonwealth troops.

The far western and far eastern sectors were comparatively quiet today. Allied troops south of the thawing Han River near Seoul were under some Communist artillery, tank and mortar fire. U.N. forces have made no large-scale assault on the now-useless former South Korean capital.

Allied naval vessels today continued to pound both the eastern and western shores of the peninsula Thursday for the ninth straight day.

The continued bombardments and far-reaching air strikes are aimed at disrupting the Reds' tenuous supply lines to central Korea.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Democratic leader Ernest W. McFarland said today the Senate will take up the 18-year draft bill next Monday or Tuesday.

The Senate will sidetrack troops-for-Europe dispute to debate the draft bill, McFarland said.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

PROPHET AND PREDICTIONS

MY COMPARATIVELY recent allusion to prophets whose portents have failed to materialize, particularly those concerned with the date of the Day of Judgment, gave an additional fillip to the interest with which I discovered an old clipping while going through some of my voluminous files a few days ago.

It was an article from the Ladies' Home Journal of January, 1931, in which the writer, Norman Bel Geddes, forecast certain changes and innovations in industrial and domestic designs and gadgets, all to take place within the next decade. In case his name is unfamiliar to my readers, I quote an editorial comment from the same magazine: "Mr. Bel Geddes is looked upon today (1931) as one of the most daring and practical originators of new ideas."

MATERIAL IMPROVEMENTS

WHILE THE INTERVENTION of World War Two held up some of the improvements in our material way of life which he prophesied for the '40's, it is interesting to note how prophetic he proved to be in some cases.

For instance, he predicted: "Aircraft will attain a speed of six miles per minute. . . They will be able to land and take off vertically. . . A new fuel of vastly increased power but of infinitesimal bulk will supersede gasoline." And he proved right in envisioning (in 1931) that rainfall could be controlled scientifically and crops artificially stimulated by scientific methods.

TOWN PLANNING

BECAUSE HE WAS a town-planner extraordinary he saw a place for airplanes in his ideal city, although it isn't necessarily mine: "Whole blocks in the midst of cities will be given over to airplane hangers, the roofs of which will form landing fields."

He also anticipated that "there would be double-deck streets, divided into lanes for slow, stop-off traffic and lanes for express traffic." Although the double-decker idea is still in its infancy the traffic lanes have long been in operation in the larger cities.

HOUSEWIVES' PARADISE

WHEN HE WROTE that article his prognostication about houses that all dwellings would be heated by artificial means, with washed air, heated or cooled according to the season, delivered from a central plant, Mr. Geddes was a little ahead in his date. But he wasn't far out in prognosticating the replacement of the incandescent lamp by the neon tube.

And when you recall that television was practically undreamed of in 1931, it is amazing to recall his prophecy that "Events of national interest will be available by television simultaneously with their occurrence." But we yet haven't got to the point where, as he then suggested, courses and lectures would be broadcast by television from key cities to hundreds of rural branches.

WORKING WEEK

LIKE OTHER VISIONARIES, Mr. Geddes was a bit ahead of social and economic progress when he forecast a working week of six days of four hours by 1941. But if the present trend continues it won't be long, at that, before we see demands for a 24-hour week, and at the same time take-home pay.

Evidently a humorist as well as a prophet, he foresaw fashion changes in the decade from 1931 to 1941 as follows: "Women's dresses will be shorter; women's dresses will be longer; women's dresses will be shorter; then longer." And he might just as well have added: "Ad infinitum."

HUMAN NATURE

THIS PARTICULAR PROPHET also knew human nature and that in many ways it is predictable as the same yesterday, today and tomorrow. For he wrote that "in 1941 there will still be cruelty and intolerance. There will still be generosity and unselfishness. There will still be workers and drones."

In other words, there would still be men and women. And that goes for 1951—and 1961, 1971 and so on, always providing the prediction of some gloomy prophets that the world is to be wiped out by nuclear fission in the not-too-distant future doesn't prove more accurate than his.

Return Open Verdict

NANAIMO (CP)—A coroner's jury decided yesterday the two-months-old twins of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whalen died of asphyxia but they were unable to say how.

The children, John Norman and Judy Lynn, were found dead Saturday in the twin pram in which they slept.

Mrs. Whalen discovered the bodies.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime BY H. T. WEBSTER

Electronic Engineer To Study Traffic Lights

Entire question of street lights and synchronization, of traffic will be given an intensive study by an electronic engineer, Aid Waldo Skillings, chairman of the traffic and signal services committee, said today.

At finance meeting Thursday he asked the committee to recommend to council purchase of 15 signal lights at $22,000. If approved Tuesday, tenders may be called and the amount included in this year's estimates.

"It will take six to eight months to get delivery," Aid Skillings said.

The lights were recommended in a report prepared at the traffic committee's request by Sgt. Brooke Douglas, head of the city police traffic department.

Aid Frank Muller opposed recommending so many lights en masse, when he said the city already had a number ordered since last September which have not yet been delivered.

Ken Reid, city electrical engineer has urged a synchronization study for some time. He felt a general study of traffic problems in relation to traffic flow should be made.

"The whole picture of the downtown traffic flow should be studied with a view to determining the resulting effect of signals on traffic conditions on city streets."

Coal Crisis Threatening East Germany

BERLIN (AP)—Communist East Germany admitted today a growing coal and steel crisis is threatening its already weak economy.

The Free German Youth (F.D.J.) tipped off the situation by launching a recruiting campaign to lure young men into the mines.

The F.D.J. announcement called for 1,000 volunteers for work in the hard coal mines within the next two months as a "gesture of patriotism" on behalf of the Communist five-year plan, just under way.

West Germany also is suffering from a coal shortage which western occupation authorities have blamed on bad management in the coal industry. West German Economic Minister Ludwig Erhard has countered that the crisis developed because the occupation authorities set too high export quotas.

Meanwhile, western sources said the east zone had hoped to turn out 3,000,000 tons of steel in 1950 and accomplished only one-third of its goal.

Hoop 'Fixes' May Be Linked With Syndicate

ST. LOUIS (UP)—The Senate Crime Committee today sought to link basketball "fix" scandals which have rocked the sports world with a nationwide gambling syndicate.

Senator Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), committee chairman, and his investigators, said a two-day public hearing, which opened here today, may unearth evidence national underworld operators were behind the rigging of college cage games at Madison Square Garden in New York.

"St. Louis is the nerve centre for inter-state gambling rackets," Kefauver said.

Pearson Unmoved By Churchill Blast

OTTAWA (BUP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said today Canada has agreed with the other 11 North Atlantic Treaty Nations to the selection of a U.S. admiral to command naval units.

Pearson suggested "Mr. Churchill and others wait until all the commanders are named before raising their objection." Pearson would not comment directly on the bitter criticism by former Prime Minister Churchill.

Congress Hears Official On St. Lawrence Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice Admiral Edward L. Cochrane, maritime administrator, went before Congress today in the administration's drive for quick approval of the controversial St. Lawrence Seaway and Power Project.

Four cabinet members and other top administration aides have already called it "vital" as a defence measure.

The main support of authorizing legislation before the House of representatives public works committee has been that the seaway would provide a deep-water route for shipping in Labrador Iron ore.

Interior Secretary Oscar L. Chapman—recalled for further questioning today—told the committee yesterday that the known reserves on the Minnesota Mesabi Range of high-grade ore would last only from 10 to 14 years.

He also said that Canada will build the sea route on its own side of the river if Congress does not approve the joint endeavor.

Under a 1941 United States-Canadian agreement the two countries would build the dual purpose development on a 50-50 basis. Each would receive right to half of the estimated 13,200,000 kilowatt-hours of energy to be produced annually.

X-Rays For Blonde Hurt In Bar Brawl

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Blonde model Dorothy Rice, 26, will be X-rayed today to determine seriousness of back and legs injuries she says she suffered as an "innocent bystander" in the night-club brawl between hotel heir Nicky Hilton and an air force officer.

The beautiful Dallas, Tex., model said she was knocked to the floor when the millionaire playboy, recently divorced by actress Elizabeth Taylor, and a hefty dentist, opened up on Lieut. James Paulson in a dispute over Hilton's language in the swanky Mocambo Bar.

Value Of Water To World Told Rotary Members

An interesting slant on water was given Rotary Club members Thursday by Thomas Walker, who has been boiling it for years.

"Without water there could be no more hope of life," he said. "It is absolutely essential for every chemical and biological function of life."

"It is practically indestructible," the former superintendent of the B.C. Electric plant at Brentwood said. "In a boiler it is heated to steam at 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit, then changed back to a liquid, and after years of doing that it is still as clear as that from a mountain stream."

"It is our cheapest source of power," he said.

Get It On A Workable Basis

IT IS ENCOURAGING TO SEE THAT the Legislature realizes the true state of its hospital insurance scheme, British Columbia's largest adventure into the welfare state. One judges from the opening speeches of Government members, who are supposed to forecast Government policy, that something drastic will be done to put the scheme on a financially sound basis.

The first and most obvious step must be an increase in the present fees, which are failing to meet costs by something over $3 millions annually and may produce deficits of $5 millions in the next year. The alternative is to smuggle the hospital deficits into the general budget, pay them out of taxes and thus transform an insurance scheme, paid for equally by all beneficiaries, into a form of state charity. And once that happens, once the scheme has access to the whole purse of the state there will be no real chance of curbing its costs or preventing the consequent increase in general taxes.

Increased fees alone will not solve the present hospital problem. The Legislature evidently understands that it must provide some safeguard against abuse of the scheme by doctors and patients who use hospitals unnecessarily.

The proposal advanced by private members, probably with Government support, is that every patient entering hospital shall pay some small fraction of his bill. His payment need not be large to discourage him from going to hospital needlessly or staying there longer than his health requires.

The same sort of deductible arrangement is applied to other forms of insurance, especially to automobiles. An insurance company does not usually agree to pay the entire cost of damage to an automobile. In every accident the owner must pay a part of the repair bill and therefore he does not lightly risk damage to his property. The Government, evidently thinks of protecting the hospital insurance in the same fashion. Why it did not do so in the first place, as some of its members strongly advocated, has never been explained.

If the Legislature will provide this safeguard now before the insurance fund goes farther into the red it will have accomplished a great deal, but not enough. What the Legislature wants to know and should insist on finding out is whether the scheme is being efficiently administered, whether everybody who can pay hospital fees is paying them, whether the hospitals—assured of Government money—are as economical as they should be, why the deduction of fees from payrolls has not yet been applied to all business concerns.

Before it prorogues the Legislature should explore every aspect of hospitalization, examine the responsible officials and make sure, while there is yet time, that a sound and essential insurance scheme does not become a financial sink hole.

The Gamble That Failed

SEVERAL RETIRED PRAIRIE FARMERS have written to this newspaper to protest its statement that, in making his unhappy wheat deal with Britain, Mr. Gardiner acted with the full approval of the prairie wheat growers. Our correspondents blame Mr. Gardiner for the agreement by which the farmers lost a huge sum of money. They seem to consider the farmers the victims of a government policy forced upon them against their will.

The facts are precisely as was stated here. If anyone doubts it let him examine the stenographic records of the House of Commons. He will find (August 14, 1946, page 4,884) Mr. Gardiner telling Parliament that he laid the wheat deal before a conference "of all the farm organizations," and they all approved it in advance. On February 28, 1947 (page 922) Mr. Gardiner said he had secured the approval of "all the farmers' grain handling organizations in western Canada—the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, the Manitoba Wheat Pool, the Alberta Wheat Pool, the United Grain Growers... together with the president and secretary of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture."

When the wheat deal was announced the farm organizations cheered. "When the world wheat price rose above the price paid by Britain for Canadian wheat, the farm leaders still insisted that, over the four-year contract, there would be no loss to the farmers. They were still gambling on the assumption that world wheat prices would soon drop, that the fixed British price would give the farmers in the end more money than the open market.

The world price rose. The Canadian farmer had to sell at a lower price. Now the farm organizations admit, by demanding compensation from the Government, that they lost the gamble to an amount said to be around $150 millions. Suppose the wheat deal had turned out differently and the farmers had made more than the open market could give them. Would they now return the difference to the public treasury? Quite rightly, they would not. By the same logic they should not expect compensation when their gamble fails.

We are told that some farmers objected to the gamble. But an overwhelming majority of the farm community approved it. The farm organizations championed it and denounced all who opposed it. No real objection was heard until the deal went sour. However, the farmers were so misled by their leaders, and have so much power in Ottawa that they doubtless will get some compensation for their mistake from the general taxpayers.

A Symbol Of Character

EACH YEAR AT THIS TIME BOY Scouts of the world observe the anniversary of their founder, Lord Baden-Powell. The occasion provides an opportunity for the public to show its appreciation of the high ideals the distinguished figure held, and of the success with which the movement he established has given them practical application.

The service term of a Boy Scout is not restricted to a specific week. It is a continuous period, day in, day out, year in, year out. A member is not a Boy Scout merely when he puts on his uniform. His is a creed which must be observed throughout his waking hours. Because that is so thoroughly understood and so well practiced by Scouts, the movement enjoys support throughout the free world.

Helpfulness, courtesy and self-reliance are watchwords in Scouting, watchwords which gain strength through their translation into action. For the manliness, self-discipline and independence it stimulates in young characters, the Boy Scouts organization deserves universal commendation.

The Canadian Miracle

LATEST FIGURES SHOW THAT Canada is the seventh largest producer of goods in the world and the third largest international trader. This, for a nation of only about 14,000,000 people, is an economic miracle without precedent in human history. Even with our huge natural wealth that miracle could not have been achieved without pretty good government and, more important, an able and industrious people.

We have no reason to feel complacent about it. Another people, in the same rich half-continent, might have done even better. Just the same it will do no harm, in these days of political confusion, economic strain and dollar haircuts, to remember that, all things considered, we live in the most fortunate country in the world. True, it's not much of a world these days but we inhabit the luckiest part of it.

It Must Be Faced

THE RESURGENCE OF NAVY TYPES in our streets, particularly those fresh from sea duty, raises once again the question of beards. Beards might well stand some looking into, not without a sense of speculation or even of discovery. An oddity at the moment, they need not necessarily remain so.

The fact is that masculine facial adornment is subject to fashion just as is the depth and character of midday's complexion, and the day may yet return when any gathering of gentlemen resembles the Fathers of Confederation.

We learn that Peter the Great loathed beards, and forcibly removed them from the cheeks and chins of his subjects. Beards were anathematized in early New England. It took years for the fashion to spread to the point where Lincoln decided to grow one on entering the White House. Young men looked older with beards; old men looked wiser. Thousands of hours of shaving time were saved; expenditure of millions of dollars on shaving equipment was avoided. Clean-shaven faces were derided. Only the women, regarding their mattress-faced mates across the breakfast table, had doubts.

Perhaps it was those doubts that began the trend back to bare chins. Once begun, the movement spread like fire through prairie grass. Literally acres of masculine cheek were exposed to the light of day, in many cases for the first time since early youth.

The jungle has not reclaimed its own, but the threat is ever present, from the lurking shadow at 5 p.m. to the critical condition at 7 a.m. it cannot be disregarded. Perhaps it is only the disapproving attitude of women, unable for once to compete, that holds it at bay.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

UNDER the corner stone of the new Library the other day the civic authorities placed certain relics to remind future generations what life was like in that best of all possible years, 1951.

In matters of this sort the civic authorities lack imagination. So far as the public prints tell us, the corner stone contains some blue books on city finance (which will hardly be understandable two centuries hence when finance, no doubt, has been abolished), some coins (which have little value now and will have none then) and some newspapers (which will be illegible when the written word has been abolished in favor of television and mental telepathy.)

BUT WHAT exhibits could we leave to tell our posterity how we lived, what we thought and whence came that intangible essence which distinguishes the Victorian from any other man? We might, perhaps, leave a photograph of Cadborosaurus as evidence of our boundless faith in the unseen, a flower basket from the lamposts of the Causeway to show our worship of nature, some women's clothes to prove our love of beauty, some of Mr. Anscomb's radio speeches to explain our interesting system of government and (since the climate no doubt will have changed by then) some statistics of rainfall and snow, together with a denial of the same by that faithful and patriotic prevaricator, Mr. George I. Warren. And by all means bury under the cornerstone that most pitiful exhibit of the age, the taxpayer (who might as well be buried mercifully now as later) clutching in his hand a cost-of-living index and an income tax form.

TWO hundred years from now, I suppose, the city will swarm, solid, to Sidney and Goldstream, and through the dark central mass they will cut a great mall and in the process will remove the Library. Then they will uncover the stone laid a few days ago, opening it with proper ceremony. A representative of the Liberal Government in Ottawa, still in office, will be there with the provincial Premier and the Mayor in top hats and tail coats, unless two centuries of education have taught men to dress as sensibly as women in togas or nightgowns or, more likely in kilts when the Scots have finally conquered the country. Cadborosaurus himself, long since tamed, will be called upon for a little speech as the oldest Victorian present. Then, while the flash bulbs explode and the television cameras grind, the stone will be opened to reveal the financial reports and the antique coins. One fears it will be an anti-climax.

THE EGYPTIANS did better than this. They left mummies in their monuments and I can think of plenty of mummies around here today who would serve adequately. I am quite ready to volunteer myself.

However, the scene in A.D. 2151 may be far different. The corner stone may be opened not by visiting dignitaries but by atomic explosions. And wandering through the twisted jungle of steel and concrete, our descendants, hairy men in cougar skins, will come upon the financial reports and use them to light their fires, shaping the silver coins into earrings for their wives. Perchance, like Stonehenge, the scattered stones of the Library will become a place of worship, as they should be now, the cornerstone a block of execution where virgins are sacrificed to the current gods.

IT IS fascinating to wonder what men will be doing, long hence in this place where we have lived, the question which no sage or scientist has ever been able to answer: If civilization survives what will men believe? In capitalism, socialism, communism or in God? What will they think of our age? What will they think of ours? The last question is the only one we can answer with assurance—let them think our age was crazy. Let them think so. They will never guess how much happiness was packed into this town beneath the outer rind of lunacy.

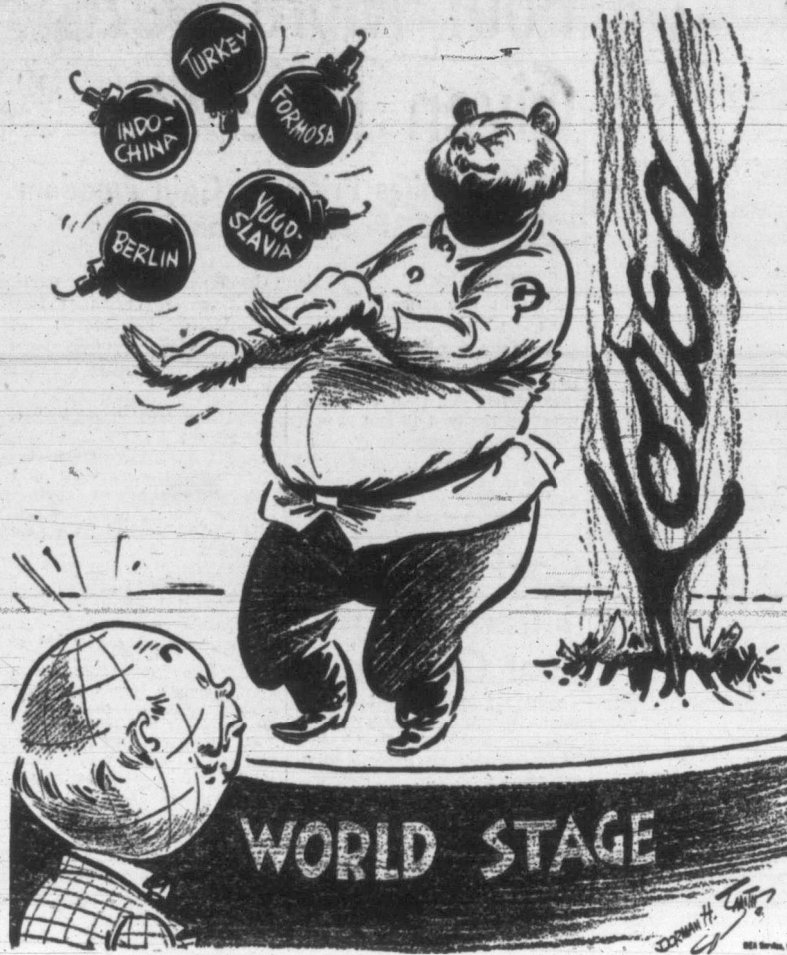

THAT is the thing we cannot convey to them by word or symbol, the thing which no age has ever been able to record. Nevertheless, despite all the outer signs to the contrary, men have lived through this age happily enough if they have lived in Victoria. If they have found this place, let them ask no other blessing. But the discovery of Victoria is a secret thing which no Victorian talks about to strangers, being well content to hide behind the caricature which strangers have drawn of us and which serves its purpose very well, if it persuades them to leave us alone.

THE SMELL of the sea, the sight of proud ships against the bosom of the urgent west, the white march of lilies in the spring time, the tangle of oak limbs, the gloom of forests, the blur of friendly faces in the sweet security of streets—these things, among others, we have known here and loved, but cannot convey to our progeny or our contemporaries, and with them a nameless something which is better without a name.

THESE were our treasures. What will our descendants do with them? What will they do to the exterior and the interior of this town? Across the dark gulf of time one would like to shout a faint message, to tell them what it meant to us. Oh, guard it well.

In making a survey of modern reading habits don't forget to include the person who reads the paper over your shoulder.

Which One Will He Drop Next?

As Our Readers See It

"AND LET THE CREDIT GO"

I yield to no one in my admiration for "Chips" Brock's column—in fact I lately wrote him a letter saying so. But when he trounces Blanche Patch, the late Mr. Shaw's secretary for 30 years, I take umbrage.

Her book may be as bad as Mr. St. John Ervine says—an opinion with which Mr. Brock evidently agrees. (I haven't read it yet—but if he has it I'd be most happy if he'd loan it to me; I'd be most careful to return it.) But she is no machine as Mr. Brock states. And I'm certain she has never boasted in the whole of her inhibited, maidenly life.

I had tea with her several times in London last year and found her shrewd, kindly, fully cognizant of the opportunities she had of hobnobbing with a master mind and the great and near great. She had held an extremely difficult position in the Shaw household for many years. Mrs. Shaw didn't care for her much, I gathered and the great G.B.S. like most writers and all geniuses was full of whims and fancies.

Last summer she was writing this book and finding it far from easy. There were so many things, she told me, she would have liked to say and felt she shouldn't. If the book fails, I'm sure it's because of what she held back not because of what she said. She admits she is no writer, but had she gone full blast ahead, letting the "chips" fall where they may, perhaps the world would have got a few shocks but a better book.

And anyway in reading what he writes, it's as well to remember that St. John Ervine is now old, and very much of an invalid. Cranky too, say his neighbors at Seaton, Somerset.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

In an editorial on hospital insurance in the Daily Times of the 13th inst., you state "British Columbians, we think, are unanimous in their support of hospital insurance," and in the issue of 17th inst. there is a news item telling of the hundreds of prosecutions which have been launched against those that have failed to pay the premium. Does this suggest unanimity in support of the scheme?

Besides the hundreds who have already been prosecuted there are very many more who, while by no means in favor of the scheme, have paid the premium merely to fulfil a legal obligation.

The editorial further states: "Every person pays for what, on average, he will get." And what are we getting? Seventeen men roaming the countryside (and presumably their traveling expenses are paid in addition to salary) attempting to persuade delinquents to pay that which they are legally bound to do. If this is the way premium money is spent, no wonder there is a deficit.

Another appalling waste is the amount of advertising—posters on the walls of commission's offices, bearing pictures of some who have had their hospital bills paid—pamphlets galore in which are statements termed by the commission as "bordering on ambiguity"—and propaganda advertisements appearing from time to time in the press.

If the scheme was a voluntary one, advertising might be fully justified, but seeing that the payment of premiums is obligatory, what good can arise from spending so much money on advertising. You advocate raising the fees, already too high for the limited benefits offered; this no doubt would entail no hardship on members of the Legislature. For instance, who have been very liberal in increasing their own indemnities, but to those who have only a small fixed income it is another and serious matter. R. COATES.

An Inspiration To Us All

I HAVE just had the honor, and the pleasure of attending the opening of the Legislature. I rejoiced in the ceremonial and the tradition of our democratic government as it has passed down to us from generations past; my heart was warmed by the presence of the popular Premier, looking so well after his recent accident; but I came away confused and curious.

As you descend from the Speaker's Gallery, down the winding oaken stairs, there are, flanking the first flight of steps, five stained glass windows. Each is dedicated, by name, to five presumably famous and well-known personages of the golden age of Greece—Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, Solon and Zaleucus.

Who, for pity's sake, is, or was, Zaleucus? My own classical education at Petrolia High School in Ontario, and a subsequent year in classics at varsity, unavoidable even to engineers, leaves me with no memories of Zaleucus. The first four names, Socrates to Solon, yes; but Zaleucus, no.

I have already hopefully sought the answer from a gentleman with a clerical collar whom I met at the tea in the library, and I inquired also (with, it is true, far less hope) from a top-notch editor. No dice. I also asked my wife, who replied, "Why worry?"

Rather humbly I admit that my home is in Vancouver and it is very likely that no one over there will ever be able to tell me what I wish to know, but surely there must be someone in Victoria who can, and please will, answer me. Who, in heaven's name, was Zaleucus?

IGNORAMUS

(Editor's Note: As our correspondent intimates, the ignorance of Vancouver is shocking. Every Victorian knows, of course, that Zaleucus (usually spelled Zaleucus) was the celebrated lawgiver of the Epizephyrian Locrians, is said by some to have been originally a slave, but is described by others as a man of good family. He could not, however, have been a disciple of Pythagoras, as some writers state, since he lived upwards of 100 years before that philosopher.

The date of the legislation of Zaleucus is assigned to B.C. 660. His code, which was severe, is stated to have been the first collection of written laws possessed by the Greeks. As the maker of laws Zaleucus is, in short, the predecessor and spiritual ancestor of Attorney-General Wismer. His name and those of other Greek worthies, are inscribed on the stained-glass windows of our Parliament Buildings as an inspiration to the Legislature, that it may be as brave as Aristides, learned as Plato, sceptical as Socrates and wise as Solon.

Mr. Ignoramus from Vancouver can judge for himself the effects of this classical inspiration.)

SMELL IT AGAIN

Ottawa Journal Would you like to open the door of an old-fashioned general store and smell the pungent fragrance again?

According to a news item, manufacturers are interested in concocting smells with which to impregnate their products. Psychologists believe that sales resistance can be lowered if customers smell manufactured products as well as see them. The more senses to which a merchant can appeal, apparently the bigger his business will be.

The Shield

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP
From Washington

JOSEF STALIN'S recent menacing statement hinted very clearly that really serious preparations by the Western nations to defend themselves would make war "inevitable." This is why it is deeply important to understand that American strategic air power is increasing by a sort of arithmetical progression. If this is understood, there is no reason why the veiled threats of the Kremlin should have the shattering effect which the Kremlin so clearly desires.

There is one way to measure the growth of our striking power. If war comes, the task of the Strategic Air Command will be, of course, to smash the industrial war potential of the Soviet Union decisively, and as rapidly as possible. The power to accomplish this task will be doubled within six months. And a year later, it will be doubled again.

Assume, for purposes of illustration, that the Strategic Air Force could now complete its mission within about 60 days of the outbreak of war (which is probably a reasonable estimate, provided forward bases were not neutralized). Then six months from now, the mission could be completed within 30 days. And 18 months from now, the Strategic Air Force should be able to finish its terrible task in little more than two weeks.

This extraordinarily rapid increase in projected strategic power does not derive simply from increased production of atomic bombs and heavy bombers. Much of it comes, instead, from simple efficiency in operation.

The case of the B-36 provides the best example of this increased efficiency. An operational altitude of 40,000 feet has for a long time been publicly claimed for the B-36. But it could maintain this altitude only at great risk of engine failure, for short periods, and with much sacrifice of speed, range, and load.

This is no longer so. A number of technical and necessarily secret improvements now permit the B-36 to fly many thousands of miles at 40,000 feet and more, without essential sacrifice of efficiency. The best of the Soviet jet fighters, like the Mig-15, are known to operate sluggishly at this height.

In short, what is now in prospect is a crushing American air strength, which the Kremlin simply will not be able to equal. To be sure, this gives no grounds for complacency. For the Kremlin will, nevertheless, quite soon be able to deliver large numbers of atomic bombs to targets in this country and elsewhere.

Moreover, this country and its allies will also never be able to match Soviet ground strength, in terms of numbers of men on the ground.

Yet by a determined effort, a balance of power can still be achieved by combining a solid ground defense in the West with crushing air superiority. This is what Stalin and the Politburo are now determined to prevent. It may be that, in order to prevent it, Stalin will defy American strategic air power and accept war.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"IT SEEMS," said the Elevator Man, "that an old gent was going by a vacant lot one day and stopped to watch a lad bouncing a ball off a post and catching it. The boy caught it a hundred times without a miss and then stopped for a breather. 'A hundred times without a miss,' says the kindly old man, thinking to please the youngster. 'That's pretty good.' 'Pretty good?' snarls the lad. 'Heck, that's perfect! There's something about 100 per cent, in any field of endeavor, that attracts us. The perfect score, the 'possible,' the shut-out, the royal flush—they're a continual incentive and a source of admiration. And the nearer you get to it the more you want it. The bowler who needs just one more strike to roll a perfect game craves 100 per cent with a lot more ardor than a fella who has half a dozen still to go. It's almost in his grasp, it's practically his, except for that one last effort. But a miss is as good as a mile. Going down!'"

"That's why," said the Elevator Man, "I'm wondering how Stalin feels today. He's just so near to getting perfection in his voting system, but he can't quite get that last strike, to give himself the perfect score. I see where 99.98 per cent of the eligible voters in the Russian republic turned up at the polls. And 99.7 per cent of those on hand voted for the government. That must be mighty pleasant for Joe to contemplate, from one angle. No other country since Hitler's machine was in power has made such a showing—certainly no free country. But that rankling little 24 per cent—that must spoil it. Somewhere in those millions there's a handful that take a chance that the secret tumor's really there, and make their little protest against the system. They might be good Communists, too, but they don't like the candidate who's supposed to be elected. They make an extra column in the statistics, upset the books and spoil Joe's perfect game. Mezzanine!"

"But," said the Elevator Man, "there should be some consolation in the fact that even though your dreams don't come true, neither do your nightmares. That holds for Joe—and for us too I hope."

Commons Against Educational Grants

Decides Federal Government Should Give Provinces Only Specific Aid

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons decided yesterday that the federal government shouldn't make money grants to the provinces for general educational purposes. The only thing it can do, the House decided, is give financial aid for specific purposes.

The chamber came to that conclusion, though there were many dissenters, as it ended debate on a private resolution urging the government to consider "means of expanding and equalizing educational opportunity across Canada" by extending federal grants to the provinces.

The resolution sponsored by R. R. Knight (C.C.F.—Saskatoon), a former school teacher, was defeated by a vote of 112 to 45. The C.C.F. Progressive Conservative and two Liberals—David Cross (Toronto) and Howard Winkler (Lisgar)—supported it.

Health Minister Martin, the government spokesman, said the government agrees with the objectives of the motion, but would be limited by the constitution if it tried to give such assistance.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, disagreed. The federal government, he said, already gives aid to hospitals through federal health grants, though the constitution placed hospitals strictly within provincial jurisdiction. The resolution, debated on a day set aside for study of private motions, drew support from many members, some with present or past links with the country's educational institutions either as teachers or members of administrative and financial boards.

PACIFIC PACT

In the opening stages, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Canada has not been asked to join in talks now taking place between the United States, Australia and New Zealand on the formation of a Pacific Defence Pact.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said he cannot say definitely yet whether the government will set up a special committee to study defence expenditures.

The Senate heard Senator A. K. Huggessen, deputy Liberal leader, suggest that its members be retired at the age of 75 and that the provinces be allowed to appoint a third of its 102 members. At present, Senators are appointed for life.

In the Commons, opposition members opposed a private bill, introduced by J. L. MacDougall (L.—Vancouver-Burrard), which would provide for the celebration of the Dominion and Victoria Day holidays on the Monday following the date upon which they fall each year. The measure is in committee stage.

Quebec Approves New System Of Rent Controls

By CANADIAN PRESS

A new type of rent-control legislation will go into effect in Quebec if the Federal government vacates the field April 30. A bill embodying the legislation was approved unanimously in the province's legislative assembly yesterday.

The system will encourage tenants and landlords to reach agreement by negotiation on rents and leases. Where they cannot agree, their cases will be put before local rental administrators to be appointed in communities with a population of 100,000 or more.

APPEAL BODY

Appeals against rulings by local rent officers will be heard by a five-man commission which also will have the power to fix general rent scales for different parts of the province and for different categories of housing.

Legislatures were also sitting in other provinces yesterday. In Edmonton, the new session opened with the Throne Speech forecasting a new municipal assistance plan for Alberta. The program provides for unconditional grants to all municipalities and contains provisions for easing municipal taxation.

In Toronto there was talk of prorogation although four other provinces—Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland and New Brunswick have yet to launch their 1951 sessions.

In Halifax, Education Minister Henry Hicks said municipalities should take greater pride in their schools and a fair share of the cost.

Lonesome Bird Of Harbor Held For Observation

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The oddest and loneliest bird in Victoria's inner harbor, mistaken by many for Antarctic penguin, has been captured. Seagulls, which for days had been perturbed by the queer but unobtrusive arrival, seemed to squawk approval.

Jeremiah, as he is called, was observed in the harbor by many Victorians last week and became the subject of a controversy as to whether he was a penguin or a murre.

He has now been identified as a murre; an oceanic bird rarely seen near civilization unless in trouble.

Don Bothy, a driver for Heaney's Cartage Ltd., who wanted to settle the argument once and for all, captured the bird on a broom alongside the C.P.R. wharf Thursday noon. He clambered down a ladder and picked up the bird without any trouble.

Once captured Jeremiah began to squawk and to show his dislike for human beings. Later he walked around as tame as a pet.

"It was lucky I was wearing gloves," Bothy said. "He sure pecked at my hands and the things he said were not very nice."

Jeremiah was then handed over to E. J. Dentith, C.P.R. baggage official. The bird was packed in a box and turned over to Dr. Clifford Carl, Provincial Museum director, for identification.

There is little doubt that Jeremiah was lonely as a murre, is a creature of the crowd and likes to huddle with members of his own species. Jeremiah's natural home is on some rocky outcrop in the Pacific Ocean, miles away from human habitation.

The bird tried to take off on several occasions in the inner harbor but for some unknown reason never got his tail out of water. Museum officials hope to be able to diagnose his trouble today before letting him go free.

THE HOME GARDEN

Growing Perennials From Seed Fascinates

By HILDA BEASTALL

While it is satisfactory for the home gardener with limited space to buy perennial plants, it is a very fascinating hobby to grow them from seed.

The important point to remember is that a great deal of variation will appear in most species thus grown. To get good specimens for the garden, ruthless roguing-out of all inferior plants must be practiced.

The discarded plants should be consigned to the compost heap—not to the neighbor's garden. If they are not good enough to keep, they are not good enough for your friends and neighbors.

When buying the seed of perennials be sure that it comes from a reliable source. Purchase as small a quantity as possible, and be rigorous in discarding poor specimens, and those not true to type. The best is none too good for your garden.

If you have either a greenhouse or a cold frame, February is a good month to sow perennials. Germination is better than during the hot days of late summer, and the larger plants will be better able to withstand the coming winter.

Also, you will have the pleasure of seeing some of the plants bloom in the late fall, and be able to do a little roguing at that time. Without the aid of a cold frame, the seed of hardy perennials may be sown in August and September. The seedlings are then carried over winter in flats placed in a sheltered corner, or they may be set out in nursery rows, where they are left to flower in order to determine their color, form and quality.

DUTCH TELEPATHIST FAILS IN SEARCH FOR STONE

LONDON (CP)—Scotland Yard has admitted that a detective method that would have caused Sherlock Holmes to shed a tear on his magnifying glass had failed to unearth the missing Stone of Scone.

Home Secretary Chuter Ede told the House of Commons yesterday that the efforts of Peter Nurkoy, Dutch telepathist, had drawn a blank in the search for the Coronation Stone.

The famous and conservative "Yard," baffled on all leads by the Christmas disappearance of the Stone, had allowed Nurkoy to see all the clues. Yard officials told him he could sit back and track down the thieves by mental telepathy—sort of an armchair Perry Mason.

The experiment in mysticism, the "Yard" pointed out, did not cost the British taxpayer anything. Nurkoy had volunteered his services.

The Stone, thought to have been spirited off by Scottish Nationalists, is still missing from its place in Westminster Abbey.

CITY MANAGER CONCERNED

Suggests No Sound Trees Be Cut Down

City Manager Cecil Wyatt is among those who are concerned over the number of trees following to the woodmen's axe in Victoria.

He has suggested that a policy of "no removal of sound trees, unless they interfere with wires or sewers might be recommended by the public works committee.

They had been discussing a request from T. Fulthorpe that a large tree at 447 Kingston be removed.

"There'll be a howl from the residents if you do," warned Ald. Percy Scurrell.

"We have a lot of sound trees that aren't good for anything," chimed in City Engineer Cyril Jones. "Some have been pruned so much so as not to interfere with electrical wires that they are hideous scars on the face of the earth."

"Besides a man whose roof or garden is suffering from a big shade tree deserves some consideration."

Mr. Wyatt agreed there were special circumstances which could be included in any policy recommendation. However, when it was learned the parks committee have a policy on tree removal, public works quietly dropped the whole thing.

Three Old Homes Make Way For Parking Lot

Government Announces Improvement Plans For Government Street Property

Tenants of three of Victoria's oldest homes, on Government Street south of Belleville Street and opposite the Parliament Buildings, must move by the end of March to make room for a parking lot.

B.C. government, owner of the land and buildings, has informed operators of "The Poplars" at 603 Belleville Street, "Belcarra Court" at 649 Government Street and C. Mensing at 641 Government Street, they vacate the buildings by April.

This plan parallels the Times report of Jan. 27 that there were plans for the property to be used as a parking lot. Suggested plans for the future call for construction of new buildings, such as a civic centre, court house, art gallery and others on the property.

"The Poplars" was originally built by David Spencer, and Belcarra Court was built by one of his sons, Chris Spencer. Both Formation of the Victoria Highland Games Pipe Band under Pipe Major Ian Duncan was announced at the last meeting of the Victoria Highland Games Association. Drum major will be Roy Moir.

Bandsmen were introduced at the meeting by John Mackay, and addresses of welcome were given by Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, M.L.A., Ed Whyte, John Grant, and John MacDonald.

Truck Does Heavy Damage In Crash

Extensive damage was done Wednesday night when a wood truck, driven by Thomas Willis, 304 Bay, went out of control on West Saanich Road striking a parked car and power pole.

The parked car belonged to Douglas Gregg, Townsend Drive. According to police, Willis said the box on his two-cord wood truck shifted as he rounded a bend, throwing the vehicle out of control. The power pole was snapped off at its base.

One subpoena names Larry Parks, star of "The Jolson Story" and "Jolson Sings Again," a spokesman said. Most of the others named, he said, are lesser known writers, directors and producers.

Two investigators flew to Hollywood with subpoenas signed by committee chairman John S. Wood, D. Ga., committee sources said.

Rep. Bernard W. (Pat) Kearney, R.-N.Y., identified Parks as one of two witnesses he intends to call in re-opening the case of Edward G. Robinson.

Parks' wife, Actress Betty Garrett, said in Hollywood she had "no idea" why her husband would be subpoenaed.

"I believe we've been introduced to Robinson," she said, "but neither of us know him. I thought they buried this long ago."

Parks was subpoenaed in 1947 in the congressional investigation of Communism in Hollywood which sent 10 Hollywood figures to jail for contempt of Congress.

The subpoenas set the hearing for March 21 in Washington, but date is subject to change.

Robinson appeared voluntarily before the committee in December. He denied what he called false charges that he had been connected with Communist front organizations. The committee published his testimony without comment, but Republican members have objected that the action implied the actor was "cleared" although they considered the case incomplete.

Bloc Financed By Canadian Ukrainians Map Plans For Collapse Of Soviet System

BONN, (Reuter)—British experts on the Balkans attended a secret meeting in Munich this week with exiled anti-Soviet politicians.

Reports reaching here say the politicians, calling themselves the "Anti-Bolshevik Bloc of Nations" discussed plans for a political settlement for Eastern Europe should the Soviet system come to an end.

Many politicians attending the meeting claim to head Partisan movements in more-or-less-constant warfare with M.V.D. (ministry of the interior) troops of the Soviet Union.

They agree Soviet Russia should eventually be broken up into its component racial parts.

The "Anti-Bolshevik Bloc of Nations" is reported to be well financed by the Ukrainian colony in Canada. One of its aims is to set up an independent radio station in Western Germany.

SPORT WEEK

By JOHN LARDNER

The order of procedure for the coming baseball season seems to be that the first commissioner will be thrown out about the middle of March, and the first baseball about the middle of April. The commissioner will be thrown out by a party of rebellious employers (baseball is peculiar in that the employers rebel against the employee, rather than vice versa), while the first ball, a sprightly thing answering to the name of Molly Cottontail, will be thrown out by our mutual President, Harry Truman.

Lardner

Saigh

What Mr. Saigh Says, Goes

No matter what you may have heard to the contrary, during baseball's recent flow of small-caliber umbrage, Mr. Saigh has been the chief agent of the commissioner's downfall. Of course, the word downfall should be modified by the phrase "if any," pending a final decision; Happy will fight hard to avoid seizing the "substantial outside business opportunity" that he used to talk about in the days when he was pitching threats instead of catching them. But if he goes down, and the betting is that he will, Mr. Fred Saigh will be entitled to take the cursey.

Neither man makes a secret of his feeling in the matter. "I have had Mr. Saigh investigated," said Happy Chandler, not long ago.

"Fine," replied Mr. Saigh crisply. "I have had the commissioner investigated, too."

Your correspondent is not much of a fan for this kind of investigation, holding it to be each citizen's first duty to investigate himself. Mr. Saigh made a step in that direction last summer. He investigated his own Cardinal cash register, and found that it called for a night game to be played on a certain Sunday. The commissioner said it mustn't be played. Mr. Saigh ignored the commissioner. At the direct request of the league president, Ford Frick, he did eventually cancel the ball game in question, but from that point on, his attitude toward Happy, already grim, became much grimmer.

St. Louis House-Cleaning

He began to work busily and none too obscurely toward his chosen end. He acquired support as he went along, notably from the Yankees' Mr. Del Webb, and last December he shot the point hard way. True, he hasn't yet officially cashed the bet. While he, and the rest of us wait, it might be a good idea for Mr. Saigh to investigate his personal problems a little farther and see what can be done about winning the pennants to which St. Louis has grown accustomed in the last 25 years.

It may be that the hiring of Marty Marion as manager is part of the answer. The injection of a player-manager into the veins of a flagging ball club is a time-honored method of stimulation. A player-manager, in some circumstances, can carry a dead load quite a way.

Chain-Store Formula Outmoded

The method worked spectacularly in Washington, once in the case of Bucky Harris and later by a judicious dose of Joe Cronin. It worked in New York, where the appointment of Bill Terry brought the Giants several pennants. Mickey Cochrane, as a player-manager, had great impact. By the end of the 1935 season, Black Mike could have been elected mayor of Detroit in a common gallop. Later, no longer a player and no longer a winner, he was fired.

The ruse has worked with the Cardinals, too, in the cases of Hornsby and Frisch. But the true, long-term cause of Cardinal success was Branch Rickey, the Brain, and his nonplaying methods. It will be hard for Mr. Saigh to duplicate those—not because he is short on mental juice, but because the field has caught up with the Rickey chain-store formula.

The immediate prospects of the Cards do not seem good. But then—as Mr. Saigh might point out—neither do those of his old crony, Hap Chandler. You can't have everything.

United-Shores Match Tops Soccer Card

Cy Ashdown, North Shore's smart net-minder, will have the task of holding off Victoria United's hungry forward line when the two clubs meet in an exhibition soccer game at Athletic Park tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

United was held to a 1 to 0 win by Navy at Heywood Avenue last Saturday, and the McGee-Milligan-Robbins attacking unit will be pressing for more scoring practice against one of the teams they will meet in the Dominion cup playdowns.

When United and North Shore kick off at 2:30, Britannias and Wests will be starting a Victoria District game at Heywood Avenue.

Britannias are hoping to pull down the league-leading Victoria Wests.

Sunday at 2:30, Heaneys will face Alcos at lower Beacon Hill, while Oak Bay journeys to Duncan.

Unknowns Lead Field In Houston Open

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—A par-happy field teed off in the second round of the $10,000 Houston Open golf tournament today, chasing a couple of veritable unknowns who've only been in the pro ranks five years.

The man out in front was 29-year-old Jimmy Clark, a sandy-haired Huntington Beach, Calif., pro who shot a dazzling eight-under-par 33-31, 64 over the 6,900-yard Memorial Park course yesterday.

But, close on his heels was Jim Deal, a hometown boy who's been playing out of New York City. Deal was only one stroke off the pace with a superb round of 32-33-65.

In the same vein, the pro in third place wasn't very well known to headline readers, either. He was Max Evans of Detroit, Mich., who got around Memorial's layout in 32-34-66.

Joe Louis Goes Against Walker

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Joe Louis, feeling just as good as any time since the war's steps into the ring here tonight to battle California champion Andy Walker in a bout in the Brown Bomber's campaign for another crack at Ezzard Charles' world heavyweight crown.

A sell-out crowd of 17,000 that will pay $100,000 will watch the scheduled 10-round battle in the huge Cow Palace. The fight will be broadcast on a western network, starting at 10 p.m. (P.S.T.).

Former B.C. High School All Star

Don "Twitter" Hill, high-scoring Alberni High School basketball player who was seen in action in the Island Inter-High School basketball tournament this afternoon, is a former member of the Alberni Athletics senior A squad and was named to the 1948 B.C. all-star high school team.

INTER-HIGH SCHOOL CAGE MEET AWAY

Championship Semifinals On Tap at Vic High Gymnasium Tonight; Play Continues Saturday

An auspicious launching was given the Island Inter-High School basketball tournament this afternoon when Principal Harry Smith of Victoria High tossed the first ball as John Shaw (Nanaimo) and North Saanich Schools faced each other in the initial game.

The small crowd of spectators swelled to overflow proportions after 2, when Vic High students poured into the gym, forming cheering squads and consulting line-up sheets to identify tall young gladiators from up-land.

Vic High Totems were scheduled to meet Ganges in the second game of the opening round; Tsolum and Mount View clash in the third tilt; and Esquimalt and Alberni finish the round at 4.

A large crowd of spectators is anticipated for the second round of play this evening. Winners of the first round will meet in a two-game semifinal at 8 and 9 tonight.

Tomorrow afternoon will see the commencement of a consolation series. Three final games, culminating in the championship are set for tomorrow night.

Visiting club coaches were unanimous in praise of the tournament organization. Players from outside teams have been billeted with Victoria High school students and teen-agers were busy exchanging introductions in the corridors and grounds of the host school.

The annual general meeting of the Victoria Cycling Club has been set for the Tolmie School at 8. Members will gather at Hillside and Douglas Streets this coming Sunday afternoon at 1 for a training ride.

Police Deny Suppression Of Cage Fix

NEW YORK (AP)—A newspaper report of a fix involving every metropolitan basketball team that played in Madison Square Garden last season was denied Thursday by New York's former top policeman.

The Brooklyn Eagle said wire-tap recordings of such a fix were in the hands of police more than a year ago but the evidence was suppressed by some unnamed high authority.

Former Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien, who was in charge of the department then, replied:

"I want to make a general denial that any recordings were ever suppressed. To my knowledge, no recordings were ever made. Positively none were ever called to my attention."

Earlier, O'Brien's successor, Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy—in office only five months—said he had no information on such evidence or its suppression.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

More exposes of attempted basketball fixes popped up over the country in the wake of New York's gambling scandal—the biggest in the history of college athletics.

These were the developments: 1. Barry Sullivan, 19-year-old sophomore of Georgetown University, said he received several telephone calls Feb. 7 offering him a chance "to pick up some easy money."

2. Lee Robbins, former Colorado University player, said somebody tried unsuccessfully to bribe him when his team visited New York four years ago.

3. An attempt was made last week to bribe forward Gary Gurke of the Bangor, Me., high school team.

4. Two former San Francisco University players—Frank Kuzana and Don Logran—said they had been asked to fix a game last year in San Francisco's Cow Palace.

Royals Here Tonight In First Of Crucial Series

Victoria Cougars meet New Westminster Royals at the Memorial Arena tonight in the first of two big week-end games that could mean the P.C.H.L. flag, but at Portland, the Eagles are sadly surveying the result of a 7 to 2 defeat at the hands of Tacoma Rockets last night.

The Tacoma victory moved the Rockets into sole possession of third place in the league race and left Portland but one point ahead of the fifth-place Seattle Ironmen.

Tacoma coach Murray Patrick defied referee Eddie Powers' order to leave the bench in the first period. Powers called on police to eject Patrick who had protested a decision.

Officers refused to heed Powers, they said, because the Tacoma coach had not broken a law. At the game's end, Patrick was still on the bench.

Portland officials indicated they would carry the matter to the league headquarters.

Ronnie Rowe sparked the Rockets with three second-period goals to put Tacoma in a 5 to 1 lead after the first period ended at 1 to 1.

Except for Bob Frampton, out with injuries, the Cougars will be at full strength for tonight's game against the Royals. Six points in arrears of Westminister, the locals need a double win over the weekend in order to stay in the running for first place. The teams meet again at Westminister Saturday.

Also on the block is the Cougars' undefeated home record of 13 games. The league mark is 14 and the Cougars can tie it with a draw or a victory tonight.

Summaries follow:

First Period—1. Portland, Broderick, 4:25. Penalties: Webster, Hopper, Toole, Johnson, Gustavsen (minor).
Second Period—3. Tacoma, Adam (Johns), 2:17; 4. Tacoma, Rowe (Read), 3:18; 5. Tacoma, Rowe (Johnston, Read), 13:36; 6. Tacoma, Rowe (Johnston, Read), 13:36; 7. Tacoma, Johnston (Read, Rowe), 14:42; 8. Portland, Kubasek, 18:15. Penalty: Gustavsen.

Minor Booters In Week-end Action

Saturday games in the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football League will see A.N. and A.F. Vets and Mac's Champs at lower Beacon Hill, and Esquimalt Athletic Club against Argosy at Cordova Bay. Both games start at 1.

At 1, Sunday afternoon, Combines will meet Pitzer & Nex at Heywood Avenue; Saanich and Balmoral Thistles will clash at lower Beacon Hill; and Cordova Bay host Argosy Cafe at Cordova Bay.

At 2:30 Sunday, Tillamooks will engage Esquimalt in a first division tilt at Bullen Park, while Heaneys' travel to Duncan to engage Native Sons.

Bob Morrison and Gordon Verley of Uplands Golf Club will make their second defence of the senior golf buttons Sunday afternoon at 1 when they meet club mates Don Gowan and Frank Scroggs at Gorge Vale.

UNDERRATED MEMBER of the Cougars who will be at his usual centre ice position when the locals host New Westminster Royals at Memorial Arena tonight is Geoff Burman. "Denver," as he has been nicknamed by his mates, will pivot the Joe Medynski-Joe Evans unit. Game time is 8:30.

Buffalo Bill To Ride Again

A lifelong admiration for Buffalo Bill has produced a near-replica in Frank Murdock, moustachioed mat man from Portland, Ore., who will be the new headliner on Rocky Brooks' wrestling card next Tuesday.

Murdock, who has been matched with Maurice LaChapelle, has little truck with barbells, and his long curly locks are said to get many feminine hearts aflame, and to make others cool with envy.

Another newcomer, Del Kiser, is rated by Brooks, as one of the fastest light-heavies in the wrestling business. He is a brother of the popular Jack Kiser.

To Probe $500 Fine

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Eddie Shore, owner of the Springfield American League hockey club, said last night he would "probe to the limit" a $500 fine imposed on him by circuit president Maurice Podoloff.

"If Mr. Podoloff has been quoted correctly," said the former National Hockey League all-star, "his statement that I and the Springfield players involved admitted starting the trouble is absurd and flagrantly false."

Shore's fine and $450 in fines against others were imposed by Podoloff after reviewing evidence of a recent fight between Springfield and Buffalo players Feb. 15.

MELBOURNE (Reuter)—England restricted Australia's scoring to 206 when the fifth and final cricket Test match opened here today and in the process claimed eight wickets.

Morris had just reached his half-century when Brown struck while Miller and Harvey went off successive balls from Brown—the last ball of one over and the first of another.

The ill-luck which has dogged England on this tour continued when Trevor Bailey had to leave the field. Early in the innings he slipped on the treacherous turf when bowling and sprained his ankle. For a time he was able to continue, but left the field just after tea.

WHEN AND IF?

Hutch Gives Out With Playoff Ticket Plan

General manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cougars has the answer to the Coast Hockey League playoff ticket problem, he thinks.

And this is it.

Cougar fans who purchase at least two tickets to the club's first three games of the regular season will be granted the option of reserving two tickets to each playoff game in which the Cougars participate; when and if the Cougars are assured of a playoff berth.

Tickets for the final league games will go on sale March 17 at 7 in the evening. The games are against New Westminster March 9, Vancouver March 10 and Seattle March 16. Playoff tickets reserved need not be picked up until 5 in the afternoon of the day preceding the playoff game.

Children will be afforded the same opportunity though the number of children will be limited to 250. Only one ticket will be allowed to each child and regular adult prices will be charged for playoff games.

Such reservations for playoff games will be procurable on the above basis as long as seat locations are available.

In making the announcement, Hutchinsken pointed out that Cougar fans are not season ticket holders, but who have attended the majority of Cougar games will be accommodated.

McMurrans, girls, did not

"It is the only fair way we can think of," he said, "though we're bound to have a few 'heefers'."

When reminded that he was also assuring the Cougars of near-capacity houses for the three league games, Hutchinson said: "Sure, I know that, but what else can we do. Those

Quiet, Towering Profile
From Virginia In Top Ten

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Sherman Douglas, the only movie press agent in Hollywood history who can do the can-can, let me watch her doing the boom-boom.

On the big drum marked "Publicity," I don't know what Princess Margaret has done with the black lace stockings, French garters and frilly panties that shocked the London crumpet-munchers.

But 22-year-old Sharman, the apple of ex-Ambassador Lewis

W. Douglas eye, said "Get lost" to her oo-la-lads. She's out to make the Gabriel Pascal-RKO production of George Bernard Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion" as newsy as "Ava and the Bullfighter."

She had just been hired as a $100-a-week RKO press agent. I cleared my throat and asked: "What about you and Peter Lawford?"

"Androcles and the Lion" is a comedy, of course," Sharman said without a second's hesitation.

"Are you and Peter planning to tie the knot when he gets back from Australia?" "I think it's particularly interesting," she purred, "that this is the first of Shaw's plays to be filmed since his death."

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

What Is A Star? Answer
Not So Simple As You Think

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What is a star? The answer is not as simple as you might think. The term of movie star has been badly abused in recent years so that its meaning has been clouded.

Actors or actresses are not stars merely because they play the leading roles in a picture.

MOVIE
CALENDAR

(As Advertised and Starting Times)

ATLAS — "King Solomon's Mines," at 3.21, 6.17, 9.18, plus "Border Treasure." Doors 1 p.m.

CAPITOL — Douglas Fairbanks Jr., in "The Great Manhunt," at 1.32, 4.24, 6.56, 9.28, plus inside "The Vatican." Doors 1.00 p.m.

DOMINION — "The Happiest Days of Your Life," Alastair Sim, Margaret Rutherford, at 1.39, 3.41, 5.38, 7.35, 9.37.

FOX — "My Blue Heaven," Betty Grable, Dan Dailey. Doors 6.15.

OAK BAY — "The Daughter of Rosie O'Grady," Doors 6.30.

ODEON — Lee J. Cobb, Jane Wyatt in "The Man Who Cheated Himself," plus "Happy Land."

PLAZA — "The Thundering Herd," plus "Fighting Caravan."

RIO — "Sierra," plus "Ichabod and Mr. Toad." Doors 6.00 p.m.

ROYAL — "Joan of Arc," starring Ingrid Bergman, at 1.51, 4.23, 6.52, 9.24, Doors 1.00 p.m.

Leading roles are often given to people you've never heard of then sometimes never hear about again.

Nor are people stars merely because they earn three or four thousand dollars a week. Many people still get that kind of money although they have outlived their usefulness as stars.

Nor does billing make a star. An actor is not a star because his name is in big type, or even because his name appears above the picture's title.

REAL STAR

In a strict sense, a real star is one the public will pay to see regardless of the vehicle. For instance, people would have paid to see Sarah Bernhardt reciting the alphabet or Caruso singing the telephone book. They were stars.

Hollywood today has perhaps 10 or 12 real stars.

There are others who are stars by circumstance. This is best illustrated by the reply of a theatre man who was asked if Esther Williams was a star.

"Wet, she's a star; dry, she ain't," was his answer.

Today only a handful of stars are considered sure-fire at the box office and all of them have failed on occasion. It appears that the public no longer feeds on personalities, but demands also that the story be credible and entertaining.

The play's the thing in Hollywood today, not the star.

'All About Eve' Hailed By British

LONDON (AP)—The British Film Academy last night voted the American-made movie "All About Eve" 1950's "best film from any source."

The picture starring Bette Davis was produced by Twentieth Century-Fox.

The academy named "The Blue Lamp," a film about London's police, the best British effort of the year.

"The Undeclared," also a British production, was voted the best documentary film.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

Fortunately for his friends, Hard Luck Joe doesn't always know when to howl about his bad results. He can butcher a hand in cold blood without realizing that anything unusual has taken place.

For example, when today's hand was played, Joe held the East cards. He played the eight of diamonds enthusiastically on the first trick, whereupon West continued with the queen of diamonds.

After holding the second trick, West shifted to a club, South winning with the queen. South promptly knocked out the ace of trumps and easily won the rest of the tricks, scoring game and rubber.

Joe sighed a bit, because he doesn't like to lose a rubber any more than anybody else does, but he made no special complaint. Of course, you've already noticed Joe's mistake—or have you? If not, think about it a bit. How should Joe defend with the East cards?

East should play the ace of diamonds at the first trick. Then he should lead back his singleton club.

Whenever declarer leads trumps, East should take the ace without delay. He then returns a diamond to West's jack in order to give West a chance to lead a second round of clubs. East naturally ruffs the second club, setting the contract.

This is one of those unusual hands in which one defender can and should take complete control of the defence.

BIRDS PITCHING WOO

Rangers' Film Shows
Grouse's Mating Dance

Have you ever seen a bird dance like a prairie Indian to the throb of a drum?

If not you may have the opportunity this month of seeing a grouse dance in the film "Sunrise Serenade" which has been acquired by the South Vancouver Island Rangers for distribution in Victoria.

The picture is considered one of the best sound-color wild-life films of 1950 and shows the dance of pinnated grouse of Missouri, the sage-grouse of Wyoming and the sharp-tailed grouse of Saskatchewan.

Prairie Indians are believed to have based some of their dances on the weird dance of these birds performed during the mating season. The pinnated grouse, a bird of beautiful plumage, for instance, stamps its feet and whoops away like an Indian.

These birds in the breeding season, congregate at special meeting places and the males dance and display their plumage for the benefit of the females. The dances are only performed at dawn and sunset. The cry of some of these birds sometime can be heard a mile away.

Gordon Sward, head ranger, said many difficulties had to be overcome before the picture was taken. Camera equipment was flown to the dancing grounds and only after many nights of waiting were the producers able to film the unique dances. The result is a beautiful picture which both young and old can enjoy.

Hard Work, Grief, Fun, Sarcasm Preface Traditional College Play

By JIM McKEACHIE

It has been estimated that 95 per cent of our population, at one time or another, have had something to do with a school play.

But the wisdom that comes with maturity rarely permits admission by the individual of the part he or she played in the annual presentations.

The enthusiastic hand-clapping of parents long after the respectable applause of the rest of the audience has died away was reward enough.

Be that as it may, the Victoria College Players' Club has been rehearsing for several weeks for their 1951 performance—a spine-tingler called "Night Must Fall."

For Prof. Roger Bishop, who has been teaching a little English on the side since Christmas, the rehearsals were executed first painfully; then he condescended to admit that some—just some, mind you—of his budding Thespians showed a mite of promise.

By dress rehearsal time he was still tossing in the sarcastic reminders of which only a suffering director is capable, but his players nonetheless were doing quite well.

We won't go into the plot of the play—you'll have to see it yourself to find out if there really is a murdered woman's head in the hat box, and to find out if the leading man finally does the right thing by the somewhat yo-yo-brained young maid.

'They Want To Hear You At The Back'

Just one of many problems which harry directors of school plays is getting young Thespians to speak out. Prof. Roger Bishop, right, practically draws words from mouth of Carol Wootton, who has one of leading roles in thriller "Night Must Fall," which opens tonight. Looking on is Ken Leighton, another member of cast.

One thing about school plays, and this one is no exception—the students get to smoke in front of teacher. Scenes in "Night Must Fall" include numerous drags on cigarettes by both male and female members of the cast; one sturdy lad—he must be a sophomore—even gets to suck on a king-sized detective-type pipe.

"HOLD IT! HOLD IT!" The dress rehearsal was one line old when the lecture-hardened voice of Prof. Bishop thundered from the darkened depths of the empty rows of seats: "Hold it, hold it! Close the curtains again—and pull them off next time—don't have them limp off!"

From there on it went along fine except for the odd chilly-voiced remark from the Man At The Back of The Hall, suggesting little points with all the tact of a newsboy trying to sell extras.

"Come back on stage, nurse. Draw those curtains closed behind you. Take that last line again."

The cast of nine dutifully obeys such instructions without any visible emotion. The weeks have tempered them to it.

One thing, though. Times have changed.

The scenery doesn't shake and bend whenever a player walks out a door. By substituting the aforementioned draw curtains, the need for doors has been eliminated. There are other exits, but none have doors.

But the shaking scenery's passing will take away, not add to, the enjoyment of a school play, somehow.

It appears the actresses and actors need a flashlight to find their way around backstage without sending props banging around (as is customary in school plays).

This was inadvertently revealed by Prof. Bishop when he dryly remarked to one of his flock: "Have you no torch at home, Miss Moore? Couldn't you bring one tomorrow night?"

His parting shot to the assembled group, now starting to shake from the effects of the opening-night bug: "Six-thirty tonight. If your grandmother happens to cash in, you'll be excused if it's quarter to seven."

"It's remarks like that which eases the tension around the rehearsals."

You won't see the chubby-built professor when the curtain goes up tonight and Saturday night at 8:15 at the Victoria College auditorium—he'll be sweating it out backstage.

MARRIED FOR TWELVE HOURS

HOLLYWOOD (UP) —

Former child film players Charles Boy, 22, and Beverly Anne Moore, 19, today threatened to break all records for traditionally brief marriages by ex-juvenile actors.

They separated less than 12 hours after their Las Vegas marriage last Monday.

"I knew 20 minutes after I married Charles that I had made a mistake," the bride, now a telephone operator, announced.

Victoria Band Makes Big Hit In Seattle

Piping, partying, sightseeing, posing for news pictures and shopping completed a very full trip to Seattle for the Victoria Girls' Pipe Band when they were invited to play at the Policemen's Ball.

The girls, dressed in their Buchanan tartan, made a colorful picture as they paraded and piped before 7,000 guests at the ball. They were much admired and rousingly applauded.

After playing during an intermission, the girls attended a private party staged by the Seattle Pipe Band. The evening was spent in Scottish dancing, dining and ended with a mixed piping exhibition.

On the boat trip home, members of the band gave an impromptu performance for interested travelers with displays of dancing and piping.

Winch Does Rewrite Job On Throne Speech

By LLOYD BAKER

Opposition Leader Harold Winch rewrote the Speech from the Throne in the House on Thursday.

It was to be expected he wouldn't like the one read at the opening of the session Tuesday by the Lieutenant-Governor, although he didn't pick holes in the speech so much as made additions.

The Tuesday speech, he said, was more notable for its omissions than for what it contained.

Then, before bringing out pen and ink to make things right, he put the record straight, so as not to offend His Honor with his criticism, pointing out that the speech is not written at Government House but at the Legislative Buildings.

First of all, the Throne Speech should have made reference to the province's recent court victory on the question of taxing

Objects To Branding China As Aggressor

Opposition Leader Harold Winch does not think Canada should have supported the U.S. resolution in the U.N. branding China as aggressor.

He told the Legislature Thursday he agreed with External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson that the resolution was premature and unwise.

"And it makes the chance of peaceful settlement more remote," the C.C.F. leader said.

He explained: The millions of people in Asia, the Middle East and Africa, numerically the majority of the world's population who have always been called backward, were awakening.

They were demanding self-government, higher standards of living and liberation from inferior position.

There was nothing on earth which could hold them back and the problem of the white people who up to now had been dominant, was to adjust themselves to this change.

MUST HELP

"In fact," he said, "we must help it forward, not try to block it by force."

The British position on Asia was absolutely right, that these newly-awakened people need not necessarily be the satellites of Soviet communism; that their chief purpose was independence from any kind of domination and food in their stomachs.

But the facts of life must be recognized. Every time the white people appeared to be bolstering up "shabby discredited Ching and Rhee" and "every time we postpone the honest recognition of Red China" and "everytime we try to tie up promises of food or other aid to Asia to conditions of our own."

More Asiatics were being made anti-west, if not pro-Communist.

Most Asiatics, said Mr. Winch, might not be right in believing that the police action in Korea was just another phase of big-power politics, but "it is perfectly understandable."

Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway belt lands.

It was a major step forward that the highest legal authority had ruled that collection of an equity in the depletion of the forest resources in the area of the E. & N. was proper.

Then came the dig. Of course, said Mr. Winch, it was the socialist group in the House which started the ball rolling to bring this added revenue to the treasury.

This was the point that was getting a play in the Winch Throne Speech.

Boss-man Winch next wrote a paragraph on labor into the speech.

No notice was paid, he said, of the fact that labor is an important factor in the economy of the province.

Trade unionists had been calling for revision of the labor laws and in his speech he was promising introduction of legislation in line with amendments sought by the workers to the L.C. and A. Act.

Then there was the question of rent controls.

They were recognized as being of prime importance in other provinces. At least five had made it known they would do something about imposing rent ceilings if the federal government leaves this field at the end of April.

His Government was not going to face indictment for ignoring such an important question.

He was going to protect the man who must rent a house—seeing to it that the price he paid was not beyond reason.

At the same time his controls would protect the landlord, giving him a fair return for his investment.

Finally there was the question of maintaining the forest resources.

About 43 per cent of the economy of the province was dependent on them.

But the minister of lands and forests had said in a recent speech in Vancouver that the timber cut last year was one-third beyond the safety line. And only 10,000 acres of the 20,000,000 logged last year could be replanted this spring.

The minister, according to Mr. Winch, had stated: "The extravagance and waste in the forests cannot be tolerated much longer."

This was a fine state of affairs. In his Regime Mr. Winch said he would either bring down legislation to guard against overcuts, or if the power was on the books already, he'd use it tout suite.

Oak Bay Objects To Frame School

A protest may be sent from Oak Bay Council on decision of Greater Victoria School Board to erect a frame building to house the new Oak Bay Junior High School. It was stated at council meeting.

"I don't see why Oak Bay should have to take a third-rate structure," said Councillor George Murdoch, adding that he understood the recent Oak Bay school by-law called for a "Class B" type of building of partially-reinforced concrete.

GOVERNMENT SHOULD CONTROL POWER DEVELOPMENT BY ALCAN

The government should have full control of the power development planned by the Aluminum Company of Canada near Tweedsmuir Park, Opposition Leader Winch said in the Legislature Thursday.

He though Alcan should turn over funds for the power end of its plans to the B.C. Power Commission which would undertake the development and supply the company with the electricity it requires.

"It is wrong," said Mr. Winch, "to grant power rights to industry."

Winch Charges Hospital Boards Play Favorites

The C.C.F. fired its opening shot in the Legislature Thursday at hospital insurance.

The target included the service's huge operating deficits, but the bull's-eye was the bed situation in hospitals.

In the only speech of the sitting, which lasted nearly two hours, Opposition Leader Harold Winch called for another investigation of the service and its operations by the public accounts committee of the House.

The committee, he said, should investigate the Hospital Insurance Act thoroughly, go over the service's set-up and policies with a fine-tooth comb, and study particularly the hospital bed availability question.

He charged that hospital boards, which had power to stop any doctor from practicing in their hospitals without just cause, played favorite to certain doctors who could get beds for patients without difficulty.

The hospitals were financed through public taxation, and should not be privately controlled or operated by boards having the power to play favorites.

If you didn't get for Christmas your two front teeth, you'll find it hard to talk about youth use. The phrase is tricky, like saying "statistics" at a cocktail party. There are lots of uses for youth other than the one into which the United States has been forced and which starts with greetings from the President before outlining plans of a committee of neighbors for a young fellow.

National service doesn't yet appear to be the immediate and compulsory future of Canadian boys. Youth use can still be figured in civilian terms. One avenue to the solution of the problem has been sponsored by Hon. E. T. Kennedy and the B.C. Forest Service. The approach, though it isn't broad enough to take in everyone, looks good.

Stott

THE FOREST SERVICE has furnished proof that it can use youth profitably during the summer months on parks work and fire protection. The plan has a direct and material objective. It aims at providing employment for the late teenager and letting him produce something of material value to the public of British Columbia. He's paid for his labors and the province benefits.

The idea behind the movement runs a lot deeper than that. Forestry men don't believe that young fellows today are a hapless, heedless and useless bunch. They see a lot of good material in them. They look at youngsters as a major asset and as the most important of all natural resources in the country.

THAT DOESN'T MEAN they regard youth as a big manpower potential and nothing else. They see the teenager as an individual, with all the spiritual, mental and physical abilities attributed to "God's noblest handiwork."

At the same time, forestry men note an inclination in some members of the younger generation to be more receptive than productive. They feel too many are ready to accept the good things of life without realizing they have to work for them. That's a concept that was new when Adam called the boys aside and said: "Look fellows, things aren't like they were in Eden. We gotta git up and git."

The technique of the department isn't quite so blunt. It wants to infect the boys with British Columbia fever—that germ you can never eliminate, once it's planted. They want the boys to feel about the province the way most forest service men do.

THAT MAKES the problem of youth use a little more complicated. There's work to be done in the forests—all sorts of it. But not all the work is going to be appealing. As one veteran puts it: "If you took a bunch of High School kids and put them to digging a long, long ditch, by the end of the summer they'd have quite a stretch dug, but there'd be a lot more left to dig. Then when you asked them next summer to come back and dig again, they'd tell you they'd had it. We don't want to do things that way. We want enthusiastic youngsters working for us, and we can get them."

He gives an example. "Turn a young fellow loose on building a new campsite. Let him clear the ground, build the tables, put in the cooking pit, build the comfort stations. Then when his summer's work is over, he can look at the job and say, 'I did that.' He knows what it's like to accomplish something. Next year he'll probably want to do something similar or better."

THE SCHEME IS GOOD. It looks particularly attractive to eyes like mine that were young and hungry for a job in the woods during the late '20's. In those days work like that didn't come to teen-agers who wanted to join timber cruise and survey parties. Competition was too keen, and parks and forestry development of the kind now in view didn't exist.

When forestry camps opened in relief days, a lot of young men shared work opportunities cuttings trails and improving forests. They started in the same form, the pattern for the present system.

The more you think of the plan, the better it looks. The forest service has a primary purpose in building up the parks and completing other projects. If it can build men out of the youngsters at the same time, there's double the profit.

'Power House' Team Lines Up Against Fisheries

Some of speakers in vital fish and power forum of Natural Resources Conference at Empress Hotel this morning were, from left, R. E. Potter, Fraser River Basin Board; G. C. Andrew, executive assistant to U.B.C. president and forum director; S. R. Weston, chairman, B.C. Power Commission; H. L. Purdy and R. S. Davidson of B.C. Electric. These speakers represented power in forum.

Tells Conference Forest Methods In Scandinavia

Scandinavian loggers and lumbermen can not teach Canadians anything about woods products utilization, J. E. Liersch, assistant vice-president of the Powell River Co. Ltd., said this morning at the B.C. Natural Resources Conference in the Empress Hotel.

"The economic factor makes profitable many of their operations which we can not yet approach," he said.

He had nothing but praise for Swedish methods of Norway and Sweden. They have learned when to replant and when to wait for natural seeding, and have made a great headway in developing fast-growing strains of trees.

"They use very little logging machinery," he said. "Trees are mainly cut by hand, yarded by horse to wagons, and then either taken to roads or rivers for shipment to mills," he said.

Fire also is unknown in Scandinavian forests he said, due to the humid climate, great degree of settlement, excellent topography for movement, and lack of heavy slash. "I spent five weeks in these forests last summer," Mr. Liersch said, "and was able to see the results of a sensible long-term forest policy. It made me think that we have a very bright future here."

Fire Underwriters Will Make Survey

A complete survey of the fire defences of Victoria will be made by the B.C. Underwriters' Association, M. Dunn, district manager, advised Mayor George by letter today.

He asked for co-operation of officials and departments concerned. Following the survey a report will be presented together with recommendations for improvement.

A post office notice received in Victoria today warns banks and postmasters that particular care should be exercised to guard against counterfeit United States $20 federal reserve notes.

Fish Vs. Power Decisions Debated At Conference

Fisheries and power exponents "squared off" in front of the microphone this morning in the fish and power forum of the B.C. Natural Resources Conference at the Empress Hotel.

All speakers expressed the desire to have both fish and power, but S. R. Weston, chairman of the B.C. Power Commission, said that "here and there, from time to time, decisions will have to be made as to which is the more important."

"I hope the decisions will be made on a basis of comparative values rather than on propaganda of fisheries and power interests," he said.

He said there were 160 undeveloped power sites in the province with an estimated 10,000,000 horsepower potential, and that only 11 per cent of the resources of the province were now being utilized.

CALLS FOR NEW TECHNIQUES

Milo Bell, chief engineer of the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission, pointed out that fisheries workers are faced with unknowns, and that rapid development of power was calling for new techniques if fisheries are to be maintained in streams developed for hydro-electric power.

"We must know location of the plant; size, run-off, surge characteristics, eddies, velocity in the head pool, type of energy dissipator, expected loads during migration periods, and many other factors," he said. "I might point out that there are important power areas in B.C. which could be developed without affecting fisheries."

A comparison by R. S. Davidson.

Injured In Fall
Percy Grant, employee of Commonwealth Construction Co., suffered an injured spine in a 25-foot fall from the roof of one of the houses being constructed on Belmont Road by Royal Roads gates today.

son of the B.C. Electric showed that power would be from 20 to 40 times more valuable in two Fraser River power sites than existing fisheries.

PUTS FISHING FIRST
"I believe fisheries will be feeding Canadian when hydro-electric installations are obsolete," Arthur Sager, executive assistant of the B.C. Salmon Cannery Committee, told the conferees.

This resource will be with us for all time if carefully husbanded. We must not forget the value of fishing as a food industry. Fisheries interests are as interested in power as anyone else, but we would all be the losers if we were to sacrifice our food industries."

Similar differences of opinion were expressed Thursday afternoon when cattlemen, loggers and ranchers aired their complaints.

T. P. Wilson of the B.C. Beef Cattle Growers' Association said loggers damaged cattle ranges, and ruined forest grazing lands.

On the other hand, J. H. G. Smith of the U.B.C. forestry department blamed overgrazing for ruin of soil and forests in many parts of the world. He added that ranchers' objections to logging could be solved by re-seeding, and complained that poorly managed herds of cattle often ruined re-seeded forests.

Feedmen Favor Strike Action

Employees of Brackman-Ker Milling Company plants in Victoria and on the lower mainland are still on the job, although a majority of them have approved strike action in a government-supervised vote.

The workers are awaiting word of negotiations which are still being conducted by officers of their union and officials of the company in Vancouver.

The employees are seeking a 15-cent-an-hour wage increase and a 40-hour work week.

A one-month jail term was given George William Saunders, no fixed address, who pleaded guilty to stealing an overcoat owned by Harry Bergman, 1242 Fort. He has a previous criminal record.

Fines totaling $85 were imposed against John W. Oosterink, 234 St. Andrews. He was fined $50, or seven days, for driving a vehicle while his license was suspended and $35, or five days, for failing to make an accident report to the police.

A $35 fine and a license suspension was imposed against Lewis Attwell, 4045 Saanich Road. He pleaded guilty to charge of careless driving arising from an accident.

Fines of $35 each were imposed against John Devine, 1036 Hillside, and William T. Hays, sailor, when they pleaded guilty to failing to have current year's driver's licenses.

SAANICH

At the conclusion of his trial on a charge of drunken driving, Kenneth Hensworth, 565 McKenzie, was remanded to March 1 for judgment.

Remanded to March 1 for trial was Mrs. Elsie Schofield, 4025 Saanich, charged with theft of a wallet and contents of under the value of $25. She pleaded not guilty.

Mattress Workers Turn Down Offer

The strike by 45 employees of Victoria Bed and Mattress Co., Ltd., and Parker's Manufacturing Co., Ltd., went into its fifth week today with still no indication of an end.

A meeting was held Thursday afternoon, at which the management offered a 9-cent-an-hour increase to the strikers, but at a meeting of the employees' union later the offer was rejected.

Victor Midgley, union spokesman, today stated the 9-cent offer was contingent on acceptance of a management-drafted agreement covering working conditions, which he described as "obnoxious."

The union, he said, had hit on 12 cents an hour as a fair settlement and was prepared to stand by that figure.

WANTS 'WATCHDOGS' AT CITY COUNCIL MEETINGS

If City Council met at night, organizations interested in civic development could send "watchdogs" to follow the proceedings.

This was the argument put forward today by Donald Anderson, young Victoria lawyer and director of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is pressing for night sessions.

"One or two representatives who would report back to their organizations would do more good than a 100 individual citizens," he said in answer to a comment few persons would attend.

Transit Workers Vote On New Contract Offer

Three thousand transit workers in Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster are voting today on acceptance or rejection of the latest wage increase offer made by the B.C. Electric Railway Company.

The offer was made after the bus and street car men rejected last week an offer of a boost of 11 cents an hour March 1 with an additional 23-cent increase a year later.

Under the new proposal, the men would receive a 12-cent pay hike March 1 with an additional 4 cents March 1, 1952.

The two-year contract also would include improved working conditions, an increase in sick pay benefits to $30 a week and three weeks paid-vacation yearly after 10 years' service.

Officials of the Street Railwaymen's Union said results of today's balloting will be known tomorrow afternoon.

Truck Drivers Reach Wage Agreement

Evans, Coleman and Johnson Bros., building supply firm today announced completion of negotiations for a new work contract covering plant employees, truck drivers and swimmers.

Last year, negotiations between company and union bogged down over the wage question and a strike lasting over a month resulted.

Ralph Peterson, personnel manager of the firm, said the agreement will provide a wage increase of ten cents an hour to all employees and pay for three statutory holidays to all company workers with over four years' service.

The new agreement was completed through negotiations with local 234 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers (C.B.E.T.W.). The agreement will take effect in mid-March and run until April 1, 1952.

The new wage contract will give plant laborers a minimum pay of $1.18 an hour. Truck drivers' pay will range from $1.27 to $1.37 an hour. About 60 men are concerned.

Welcome Member Back From Korean Theatre

A warm welcome was given by members of the Coast Columbia, No. 834, Canadian Order of Foresters, to Douglas Allan, who recently returned from Korean waters. He served aboard H.M.C.S. Sioux.

At the meeting, district manager Morris Gilroy, addressed the members. The next meeting will be held on March 24, at 1012 Douglas.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Girl of Good Family Surprised by Gentleman In Compromising Situation, Goes To Dogs; Should He Warn Parents?

Dear Mary Haworth: On a motor trip, years ago, I was forced by engine trouble to stop overnight at a small hotel in a town off the beaten track. The next morning I awoke quite early to make up for lost time. I went to the restaurant expecting to be the first and only person having breakfast at that hour; and there I ran into a girl and fellow I knew very well.

The girl was from one of our first families. She was very much embarrassed and frightened, and offered an explanation that was worse than useless. However, I was what you might call "a good sport" and never mentioned the incident to anyone. For a time thereafter the girl's deportment seemed to be all that it should be. She apparently saw her mistake and wanted to re-nounce it.

Mary Haworth

Eventually, however, she broke out again, doubtless thinking that as there had been no penalties for the first episode, she was safe. The last time I saw her she was beyond redemption. And since then my conscience has troubled me. Should I have informed her parents, whom I knew very well, and thereby given them a chance to get her straightened out, before it was too late?

NOW HE'S SIGHTED ANOTHER SCANDAL

Now I have run into another similar case—of an otherwise very fine and lovely girl who is having an affair with a married man. They both have telephones, cars and plenty of leisure time, particularly at night. And there are numerous places they can meet, such as drive-in theatres, rooming houses, etc., and they are taking advantage of the opportunity.

Should I again be a perfect gentleman and mind my own business? Or should I do something about it before the girl's reputation is entirely ruined? I don't know how many others may already know of her actions; but you can't keep these indiscretions secret very long. What do you suggest? W. B.

ACUTE INTEREST IN ASSIGNATIONS

Dear W. B.: "It takes a thief to catch a thief," the saying goes; and your extraordinary precaution for ferreting out assignations suggests that you have a special interest in that activity. Now do you account for it? Is it a way of venting repressed desire to "investigate" too, if you are the narcoleptic?

Your long memory (and condensed memoir) of the one girl's case history of indiscretion, and your salaciously detailed consideration of places where the other girl could be meeting the married man, aren't characteristics of "a perfect gentleman." Such speculative rumaging in other persons' lives, without invitation, is usually associated with baneful frustrated spasm. So maybe you're more nearly the type that is called "an old woman."

Unless you trail people around, peering through keyholes to spy on them tele-tete—once you think you've caught a whiff of sin—now would you know, for sure, that the girl and the married man, for instance, are having an affair? And "taking advantage of the opportunity" to get together at drive-in theatres, rooming houses, etc. Maybe they are having only a passing flirtation. Or possibly it's less than that—an occasional luncheon; or a chance encounter on the street, leading to breakfast or dinner. I think it's important to rein in your galloping imagination.

ADVICE IS WASTED ON SEX INTRIGUES

For the rest, I feel that well-meant words of warning usually are wasted on persons involved in amative indiscretions. Ordinarily that sort of behavior is compulsive—a manifestation of deep psychological trouble, having a long history, that the unstable person hasn't yet faced. He is using sex as an anodyne; or as a substitute for mother's embrace, which he unconsciously craves as pacification for inner distraction. And though I say "he," the same applies equally to philandering women, still driven by "undissolved" problems in relation to parents in early life.

Unless you are qualified to speak directly to such errant individuals, as a good friend without giving offense, and unless you have wisdom, influence, insight or therapeutic finesse of your own to use, in bringing them back to common sense, I think you'd better say nothing about your suspicions. If the parents are seemingly blind to what goes on, it probably means they prefer not to see what they feel they can't remedy. If they were able to cope constructively with human frailties, they'd be away ahead of you in pondering treatment for the difficulty. M. H.

that it is frozen hard. Score it at zero degrees Fahrenheit or below, unless you intend to use it immediately. Frozen fish and shell fish which are ready for cooking do not need to be thawed if you allow additional cooking time. If you plan to bread or stuff the fish, then it is easier to handle if you let it thaw completely. Some experts advise against thawing whenever possible, to avoid loss of liquid and flavors. If you thaw the fish cook it promptly to avoid spoilage. Never, say these same experts, re-freeze thawed fish.

When purchasing smoked fish there are two categories to consider. The first, cold smoked fish. It is uncooked fish that has been cured and partially dried, and smoked for only a few hours. It will keep only a short time unless frozen. Finnan haddock and kippered herring are smoked in this way. Fish, such as smoked boneless herring, which are cold smoked for longer periods until they are quite dry, will keep longer.

Hot smoked fish are uncooked fish which are hung closer to the fire than when cold smoked. They are partially or wholly cooked, will keep for only a short time, and are sold soon after curing or kept frozen or under refrigeration until they reach the market.

Pickled fish, produced in great abundance include herring, mackerel and alewives. In Canada, all pickled fish are subject to rigid inspection regulations under the Fish Inspection Act. Well, now that we're all ready to do our fish shopping there's just one thought in mind: If a darned fish winks at me, bright-eyed or otherwise, he goes back on the counter!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Don't Disturb Digestive Processes With Exercise (The Friday Question Box)

Q.—"How can I make my hair grow longer? Why doesn't my hair grow as long as my friend's hair?"

A.—The length of hair seems to be an inherited characteristic just as the thickness and color. Scalp massage and a fine diet with plenty of vitamin B and general good health but there is a limit on how long your hair will grow.

Q.—This question comes over and over again so I will repeat it and the answer: "Does it make any difference when I take my exercises. It is more convenient for me to take my exercises before going to sleep at night."

A.—It makes absolutely no difference when you take your exercise so far as loss in inches is concerned. The only important factor is the necessity for more blood in the stomach for digestion. When you exercise you take more away. Therefore, do your exercises at times when the digestive processes are not going strong.

Q.—"Is it possible to lose in inches and not in weight? I am not overweight but my hips are way too large. My bust is 36 inches, my waist 26 inches and my hips are 40 inches."

A.—Your's is the sort of figure which can profit only by exercise. Since you are not overweight exercise is your dish. If you were overweight you would lose all over so that you would still be out of proportion unless you did special hip reducing exercises. You can take two inches off in a month's time. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 3 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper if you want the exercises.

It is possible to improve round shoulders with exercise.

Q.—"Is it possible to straighten round shoulders when one is as old as 20?"

A.—Certainly it is. You should take exercises to strengthen the back shoulder muscles and stretch the chest muscles. Also think many, many times a day about your posture. Sleep without a pillow if you can.

Q.—"What can I do for circles around my eyes?"

A.—Look to your health habits. Get plenty of sleep, outdoors exercise and be sure that your food intake is well balanced and adequate in vitamins and minerals. If the circles are dark you can lighten them by using a make-up base.

Canada Aimed To Meet Depression

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor

A great change in the economy of Canada during the past 25 years is noted in the monthly review of the Bank of Nova Scotia, which with this number celebrates its 250th issue and its silver jubilee.

In the late twenties, says the review, wheat with its vast associated investment in railways, and in storage and handling facilities, was very much the centre of Canada's economic structure.

At that time while mining, pulp and paper, power and manufacturing industries were showing notable growth, they were not enough to stay the depression which shook Canada in the thirties when the combination of low wheat prices, shrunken export markets and successive years of drought undermined the basis of national prosperity and retarded recovery.

The growth of Canada since the twenties, goes on the review, has not been in wheat but in other great industries. One of the most important aspects of this has been the increasing degree to which wood and base metals have been processed in this country rather than exported in raw and semi-processed form.

Canada is rich in the resources that have been growing less plentiful in the United States and in the world at large, and this means that the long term trend is all in Canada's favor.

Writing in Financial Post this week, Peter W. Bell, of the Victoria stockbroking firm of H. A. Humber says:

"There are several undisputed facts to justify present market prices. Quotations generally are well below the crash level of 1929 when the 30 Industrials of Dow-Jones toppled from their all-time high of 381. Today they stand under 255.

"In 1929 the Dow-Jones stocks were appraised at 294 times their earnings of $10.06. They yielded only 2 1/2 per cent on dividends of $7.44. Today the same shares are selling at only ten times their earnings; they are paying dividends at the average rate of 6.15 per cent and their earnings are estimated at $25.40.

"There is little indication that a market collapse is imminent, although there is always the possibility of a sharp technical correction," concludes Mr. Bell.

Sheep Creek Gold Mines has completed arrangements to acquire the Mineral King property in Windermere Valley. Ore will be conveyed by truck 14 miles to the company's Paradise Mill. The long term policy is that the mill will be supplied from Mineral King during the winter months when road conditions may halt operations at the 7,600 feet high Paradise mine. Grade of ore in the two mines are said to be similar.

Alberta Distillers Make Sharp Advance

VANCOUVER—Shares of Alberta Distillers, who are expanding their production and marketing zone, were a strong feature today, when they were traded to a new high of 3.60—20 cents above yesterday's close.

There were also strong spots in oil, Federated adding .35 at 7.85, and Atlantic putting on a nickel at 2.95. Anacostia rose to a new high of .23 and Zodiac rose five cents to trade at 1.30. Also in demand was Vanalita which traded at .35, for a rise of 10 cents over two days. An 11-cent rise was also made by Leduc Calmar at .83.

Feature of base metals was a jump by Western Uranium to 1.90, at which point they established a new high.

Profits Taken

MONTREAL (CP)—Securities settled in a narrowly irregular price path in comparatively slow trading.

The market gave a slightly stronger appearance for the better part of the session before profit-taking shaded many leaders.

A moderate list of issues in the industrial section, papers, utilities and senior oils showed a majority of plus signs, while beverages, senior metals and banks moved into lower ground. Carriers were unchanged.

Mines and western oils pushed irregularly higher in fairly active trading, following early hesitancy.

Quiet Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices ambled ahead today in the slowest session in nearly six months.

Aircraft issues stepped forward immediately after the opening of the market with strength based upon recommendations given to congressional committees calling for a larger air force.

Steels and motors went along with the rise, although on a less enthusiastic basis than the aircrafts. The radio-televisions were strong but without much trading activity.

Canadian issues were strong. Canadian Pacific, up 1/2, and Distillers Seagram, up 1/2, led the gainers. Also higher were Dome Mines, up 1/2 and McIntyre 1/2. Hiram Walker eased 1/2 while International Nickel was unchanged.

On the curb Lake Shore fell 1/2 while Giant Yellowknife and Royalty Oil were unchanged.

Pioneer Gold Output

Pioneer Gold Mines Ltd. in 1950 produced 35,300 fine ounces of gold from 74,500 tons, which placed the company in fourth position among British Columbia gold producers. The grade of ore treated (.47 ounce per ton) was easily the highest in the province and with extensive reserves of high-grade ore, Pioneer awaits only a full complement of experienced labor and more favorable operating conditions to regain its former position among gold producers.

At one time the Chinese were firing low-charge mortar shells straight into the Canadians. Only one air strike was brought in to support the Canadians, but they had strong artillery support and didn't hit one of us." Australian troops moving along the border with North Vietnam told the Canadians reported that the Chinese were under fire tonight after reaching the day's objective without opposition.
